DETAILED ACTION

Election of Species Number 1 (corresponding to Figure 2) is acknowledged.

Figure 1 should be designated by a legend such as --Prior Art-- because only that which is old is illustrated. See MPEP § 608.02(g). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Muramatsu et al.

Muramatsu et al teach (Figure 6) a scanning probe microscope that includes a cantilever 1 having a probe; and a structural volume 20, 18, 19 that contains a sample 2 and liquid 15. The structural volume portion 18 includes a region that contacts the (upper) surface of the liquid. Muramatsu expressly refers to reducing "evaporation" (col. 6, line 10).

Art Unit: 2856

Muramatsu does not call the volume 20, 18, 19 a "sample container", and Figure 5 does not appear illustrate use of a light source and detector.

As to claims 1 and 11, the structural components 20, 18 and 19 may be properly classified a container, as it does contain both the sample and liquid. In addition, it would appear that Muramatsu's Figure 6 is simply a modification of Figure 3 (which employs a light source and detector), but if not, it would have been obvious to utilize a light source and detector in Figure 6 because Muramatsu teaches (Figure 3) use of light source and detector to accurately measure lever displacement of a scanning microscope.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Braunstein et al teach (col. 22, lines 42-45) use of a shroud to cover a sample to prevent liquid evaporation in microscopy.

Claims 2-5, 12-15 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
